

Assessing and identifying leaders for a newly-formed leadership team

The Challenge

6 Group, a leading executive search and leadership assessment company, were working with a European Energy Company to put together a new leadership team.

countries.

.....

They carried out assessments with:

CEOs, CFOs, Heads of Marketing, HR and Digital Experts across nine different business groups in

As well as assessing leaders, a key aspect of the program was to also ensure that the process provided a developmental opportunity for the individual participants.

6 Group combined Wave

The Solution

Professional Styles Expert report and Leadership Risk report to explore the individual drivers, leadership style and potential risk areas of each of the leaders.

development sessions to identify leaders who were most aligned to what the organization required from their leaders, both now and in the future.

Additionally, the reports provided a platform to design personalized with one-to-one validation and development initiatives for those leaders, depending on their leadership style.

executives.

ENGAGEMENT

QUALITY

Those that were not chosen for that role all assumed roles in the new organization linked to their overall strengths and areas that would have the greatest positive impact on both

Of the 50 cohort, 6 Group were able to identify the top 10 leaders for the newly-formed division.

QUALITY

the organization and their careers.

The end client was delighted with the result and consequently commissioned similar projects for a further 80

gave a lens to candidate potential in line with organizational requirements.

The dual combination of the instrument and validation sessions increased the objectivity of the process and

The universal feedback has been that our participants have never had such detailed feedback that isn't just linked to labelling as a 'type' of person.

- Managing Director, 6 Group

